

TPS profile and Contact details

TPS is an enthusiastic, motivated planning, public affairs, training, education and economic development consultancy committed to meeting the needs of its' clients efficiently and effectively. We are one of the largest independent, specialist planning and development consultancies that has not been subsumed by a substantial, conglomerate company, chasing its own corporate agenda rather than client interests.

Our consultants all have in-depth experience. We do not employ consultants with less than 15 years post-qualification history of working in challenging positions. This means that clients will never find themselves appointing TPS on the basis of initial contact with a director only to find their project being carried out by the consultancy's latest graduate recruit.

We are innovative, imaginative thinkers with excellent communication, persuasion and negotiating skills. We have strong research and case preparation and presentation abilities. TPS is the only planning consultancy that offers co-ordinated planning, public affairs, training, education, and economic development services in a single organisation.
